Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. Claims 62, 20-23,45-47,67,68,74-77,80 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Teunenbrock in view of Barlow (5240255).

Claims 62,45,67,74-77: Teunenbroek teaches providing a plurality of game pieces and a playing board (4:31-34) including a first game piece (1), a second game piece (2), having deformable keys (10.10'), method of engaging game pieces and deforming one of the pieces (1:22-29), further suggesting that such game pieces are collector's items inherently suggesting each collector having plurality of such pieces.

Teunenbroek teaches all limitations except that it does not expressly teach *players*1 moving on a game surface having designated positions.

Teunenbroek does however teach that the apparatus can be used in various games and competitions (4:9-11) for commercial purposes, providing a playing board (4:33), and for use in games (1:1-3).

Barlow teaches a method of playing having steps of moving on designated positions of a playing surface, landing on same designated position, deforming an opponent playing piece and removing game piece from the playing surface.

Board games have amusement values and they are extensively used in promoting game articles. With respect to claimed method steps the examiner takes the position that these steps are commonly known in the art area and present in many board games.

Application/Control Number: 10/670,920

Art Unit: 3711

Board games are known to promote collector's items such as game pieces by providing them in a kit with board game to attract players.

In order to make the kit attractive to players, it would have been obvious to provide collector's game pieces for playing a board game.

One of ordinary skill in art at the time the invention was made would have suggested providing collector's game pieces in game kit for using in a board game like game.

Claims 20-23,46-47: Teunenbroek teaches two players engaging their pieces and moving relative to one another and deforming one of the pieces. The once-only snap (1:62) coupling demonstrates a temporary deformation prior to a permanent deformation.

Claim 45: With respect to central row being centrally positioned, Barlow surface has at least two spaces that can be treated as placed in the central area. In the absence of any criticality in the location of space in the claim, it would have been obvious to place spaces for aesthetic reasons.

Claim 68, 80: Barlow teaches placing pieces on start space can be broadly treated as arranging game pieces at the commencement of the game. In order to play the board game it would have been obvious to arrange game pieces on the surface.

Applicant might argue that some of applicant's claims provide a set of playing pieces.

Whereas some players like to play a game of short duration others like to play a game that takes longer to finish. In order to make a game last linger for those players, it would have been obvious to use multiple game pieces.

One of ordinary skill in art at the time the invention was made would have suggested providing multiple pieces to last the game longer.

Allowable Subject Matter

- 2. Claims 69, 25-28,70-71,72,19,30-31,49-55,73 allowed.
- 3. Claims 63-66,78-79 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 62, 20-23,45-47,67,68,74-77,80 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
